The 1982-83 Titan Yearbook
Notre Dame High School
7085 Brockton Ave.
Riverside, California

Editor: Veronica Sirias
Advisor: Mr. John Spurlock

Working hard just to be someone

To do those things you think can be done

Like buy a car, mansion, and t.v.

Each year there's a certain energy that runs through the school that predicts exactly how the year will go. Sometimes this energy says, "Let's get this over with," or, "Let's rebel against authority," and yes, sometimes there is no energy at all.

Dream of love and loves you lost

And how you felt and what they cost

Don't you know it's all the same to me

We've seen all these types of energy in our years at Notre Dame. Now it was the job of the 82-83 Titan Yearbook Staff to try to figure out what the energy was . . . to put a name on it and to show it to you the best possible way we could — the way you showed it to us.

Pulling ropes and cuttin' strings

Doing all those lovin' things

This time you've taken all that you can stand

First, there were new people, not only in faculty — but in administration, too. There were new policies new rules, and new schedules, and yet, Notre Dame seemed undeterred. All in all it was still "our" school . . . it wasn't a battle between "them" and "us" anymore, it was an agreement — and we could settle it

No time to waste
green light go Moving fast but never slow
You'll have to take your living day by day

Almost all of us had something to do: hobbies, a job, a sport, student government, or maybe the pep squad. There was always some committee or organization on the announcements that needed students to help. And many of us devoted our time loyally and unselfishly. Then if we found time we'd do homework

Late night parties never few

Always finding things to do

You've worked all week and now it's time to play

Alas, a school week only lasts five days — and one must find something to do for the other two. And those were as various as the students themselves. Whether supporting our team or just the pizza get-together afterwards, dances, concerts or movies were enjoyed by a weary student body after a Friday besieged with turning in reports and taking tests. Talk about working for a weekend

Run for the money
Shoot for the stars
You're only as good
As you think you are

If the school year of 82-83 should be remembered, it should be for its high energy and spirit, not just by a minority, as it has been in the past, but by a large majority. Although a few resisted, most clapped, yelled and danced at assemblies and did their part at games — and even masses had much more of the student body in participation, whether directly in it, or just sitting on the bleachers — everyone belonged

Decide that you're a winner

And then stock up on your hopes

Then you go far, go far

And so we've gone for all we could, we've done the best that we could, and we have this feeling of the greatest gratification, the most splendid satisfaction. Knowing that what we do, we give our all for; that what we believe in, we will do anything for; and that when we go for something, we . . .

GO FOR

BROKE!

Breaking Pencils

Even with sports, dances, clubs, and everything else, what we spend most of our time doing at Notre Dame is attending class. Math and science, English and history, may be our most important acquisitions here. Our best memories may be of that soccer game or of homecoming. But it is certain that making the grades will stick in our minds.

We had several new classes to choose from among — humanities, band, Latin and others. The Notre Dame curriculum offered more than ever. And the older classes — art, sociology, home economics — were all taught with the same excellence as ever.

All the standard courses remained, art, Spanish, English, math, biology — providing the strong, college preparatory background many of us come to Notre Dame for. This year's academics section features several of the new classes and also focuses on some of the new directions in older classes.

Religion

Religion is a basic, mandatory class at Notre Dame. The students are taught according to their grade levels. The freshmen are taught about the contents of the Bible while sophomores are busy with the church's history. Juniors learn about morality and seniors learn about themselves and their feelings. Even though religion may not be everyone's favorite subject, most students do agree that we should have it. Senior Cathy Chaves commented, "I like religion, especially this year because we get involved in ourselves and and others. We just don't read from a book." Kim Kelly, a sophomore said, "Because of it, our school shows Christianity. Everyone is friends with everybody, which is what it's all about."

Language

In order to broaden the language department at Notre Dame High School, and to offer a variety of language classes, Latin I, taught by Father Bob, and German I, taught by Mr. Spurlock, have been added parts.

Latin was part of the foundation for romance languages, such as Spanish and French. Latin also has a strong influence on the English language, and students enrich their own English vocabulary through learning it.

Next year Latin II and III will be added as well as German II. By the end of the year, students in Latin will have a basic understanding of simple Latin. Father Bob has a tough job getting the students to understand the variation of the language.

Special thanks to Father Bob and Mr. Spurlock for sharing their knowledge so students have more of a choice.

Social Studies

This year at Notre Dame the World Cultures class discussed the customs of many countries of the world, such as China, Western and Eastern Europe, and Greece. U.S. History students enjoyed learning the hardships early colonists faced when traveling from England to the new country. The national, state and local governments were analyzed in U.S. Government class.

During the year of 1982-83, the science classes have been very busy learning a variety of different things. The general science students, for example, have been working with formulas, atoms, and elements. They furthermore learned the functions of soundwaves using tuning forks. The chemistry class was centered around the study of elements and their relationship to the atmosphere. One of the more interesting topics of biology has been botany, or the study of plants. Cell division was also researched in the class.

Fine Arts

In addition to Drama and Art, Band and Humanities have been added to broaden the classes offered in the Fine Arts Dept. This way students have a wider range of classes to pick from in order to earn their credits to graduate. Mrs. Jo Dean Salley teaches Humanities. The Class, which is quite small in number, contains only about ten students, all of whom have obtained at least a 2.5 p.a. to be admitted into the class. Mrs. Salley commented that she had once taught the course to college students and that she enjoyed teaching it here at Notre Dame. Being in charge of a band takes plenty of patience which we all know Mr. Becker has. He has been busy organizing the eighteen members of the class which consists of: flutes, clarinets, saxophones, drums, trombones, a tuba, and a trumpet. Each of these students have had at least two years experience in their instrumental field, which means they aren't beginners. This new group at ND has added a new life and spirit to masses and pep assemblies. Mr. Becker stated that right now it's just a pep band, but it is continuously improving and within a few years they will have things going strong!

Breaking Backs

N D.'s Athletes are a unique group of competitors always giving their best performance every game, tournament or meet. With the help of excellent coaches, the teams practiced long, hard hours, to become the aggressive athletes they are known for. Each player dedicated himself to the team completely, without holding anything back. They became as one. The Elite group of sportsmen demonstrated the real meanings of sports: Unity, Dedication, and Performance

Varsity Football

Coming into the season, the Titans were strong and hopeful. They wanted to be the Sunbelt League Champs. The Titans achieved most of the goals they set for themselves.

They played aggressively with a strong defense, anchored by seven All-League players.

Their offense was tough. They had an explosive running game, with a talented backfield. With strong teamwork, and a good coaching staff, the Titans went on to complete the season with a 7-3-2 record.

The Titans made it to the second round of the C.I.F. Play-offs for the second consecutive season.

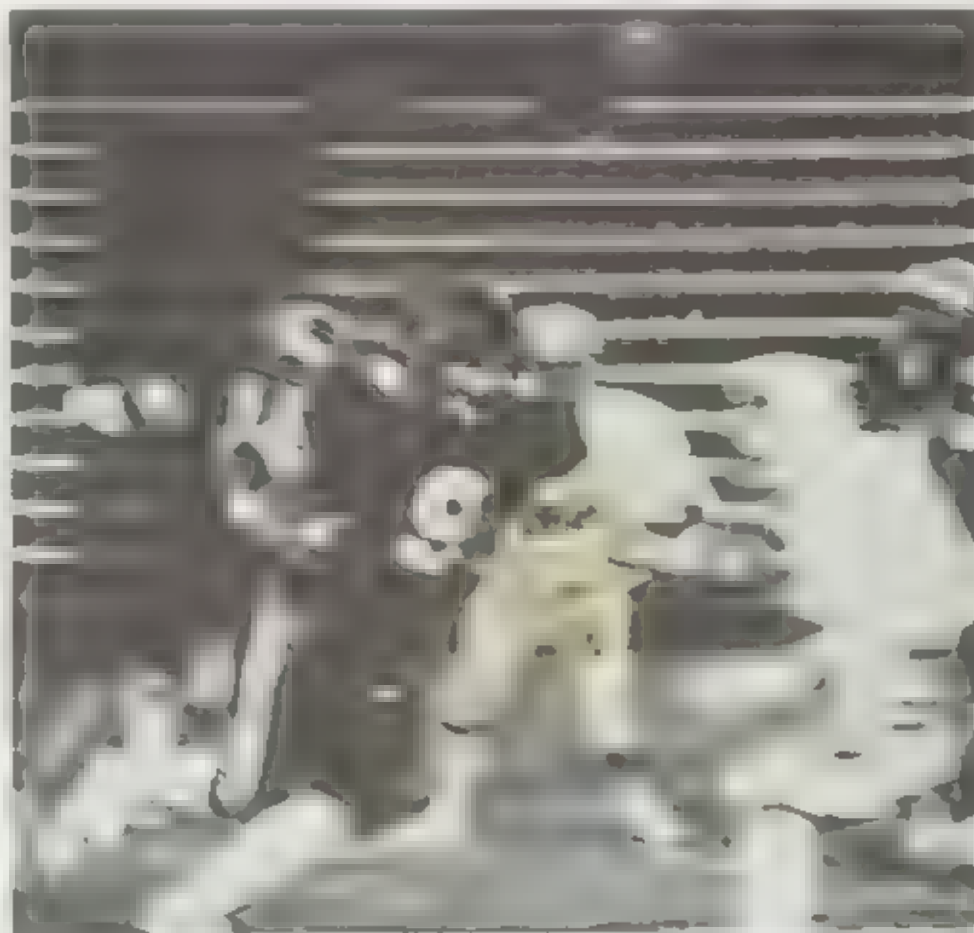

In the first round against Miralest, Notre Dame scored two times on the Marauders fumbles, with the final score being 14 to 6. The second game was against Rio Mesa. The Titans gave it their all but came up four points short.

They worked hard to become League Champs and to go to C.I.F. It was a great season and the returning players are looking forward to an even better season next year.

The Junior Varsity football team got off to a slow start, but once started they put forth great effort. They ran, tackled, passed, and generally played with great vigor. Our star runningback Mike Mercadel plowed down the opponents by running for more than 1100 yards. All in all it was a generally fulfilling year. Our team generated stamina and we have a right to be proud of them. They may not have won all of their games with a record of 3-7, but they worked hard and kept going enthusiastically until the end.

Cross Country

This year's cross country team did an excellent job, with the girls taking second place in the Mount Sac Invitational, and Rebecca Hodde, one of the team's best runners, finishing second. Some top finishers at the league finals for the boys were Joseph Schupp, Timothy Howard and Michael Orvaets. Girls top finishers were Rebecca Hodde, Julie Schouton and Angela Redelsperger. Coach Jacobsmeyer did a fantastic job preparing the team this year. Congratulations team!!

Varsity Basketball

Once again the Titans produced one of the best basketball teams not only in league but also C.I.F. With a 20 and 8 season record, Notre Dame showed that they could battle with the big guys

They had a tough pre-season schedule, playing mostly 3 and 4-A schools, which put their winning ability to the test. As always they came out victorious. The Titans began their league play with a win against Banning. The winning spirit stayed with the team the rest of the season. They finished second in the Sunkist League and were C.I.F. bound

Under the guidance of Coaches Wuetcher, Breyer, and Jacobsmeyer, the Titans advanced to the third round of C.I.F. play-offs, where they were finally defeated by Blair

After a terrific season we wish the departing seniors luck in their future careers and the returning players the best of luck in the seasons to come Compiling a 12 and 6 overall record, the Titan team was one of the best J V teams ever. N D surprised everyone with upsets against North and Banning.

With a strong bench and great teamwork, they finished second in the Sunbelt League with a 7 and 3 league record.

The team had great character and was motivated by good coaching and a winning varsity.

After such a great season, the Titans are looking to carry it over to next year's Varsity team.

"We discovered our spirit too late in the season," said Denise Booth. "We were a very talented team, but because of injuries and other problems, we didn't do as well as we expected." "Even though this discouraged us some, we still strove to win, and because of our problems we grew closer as a team. And though we weren't supposed to be a factor, I think we gave some teams a tougher game than they expected, and I was glad to be on the team."

To add to things, Robin Block said, "We had fun throughout the season even though we didn't win as much as we would have liked to. We learned and improved on a lot of things we needed to work on. We had the talent, but not the varsity experience."

The team next year should really have a lot more ability and talent and should really be looking forward to playing with excellent coaching."

After a successful first season, the soccer team returned with an even better second season. The team started out strong with a convincing second place finish in the Rubidoux Tournament out of twelve teams, and have advanced to the second round of CIF.

The Titan offense was led by powers such as Shawn Zink and Chris McDaniels, who, by the end of the season, had combined for nearly fifty goals. The defense was led by senior fullback Bill Navigato, goalkeeper Chris Rombach, and fullbacks Mike Morehead and Kevin Kelly.

With up and coming freshmen Larry Picard, Tim Whitman, and sophomore Nick Salle, the team should prove to be a strong one in the years to come.

Swimming

Swimming

Every Monday thru Friday 6:00 to 7:30 pm, the N.D. swim members train. They workout strengthening arms and legs and perfecting turns, dives and relay starts. The swim team is sure to go far with the guidance from their new coach Don Crocket, and the outstanding performance of such swimmers as Sally Fleisher, Stephanie Weber, Tom Fleisher, David Palzell, Michael McKeever, and Butch Quay. Swimming is a magnificent sport which requires time, patience, dedication, and precision in order to excel. The N.D. Swim team meets all the requirements.

Every year a group of talented individuals go out for track. They train long grueling hours running extra miles and doing strenuous exercises, developing every muscle of the body. In spite of rain or heatwave they run, jump and go into action. With the help of coaches Mary Mathern and John Kothlow, and the support of colleagues, they impel themselves to do more than just "good." They are a group of gifted competitors who are pursuing goals that no doubt will be met. Their outstanding performance in years past and present should be acknowledged. Good luck in the future.

The Year in Sports

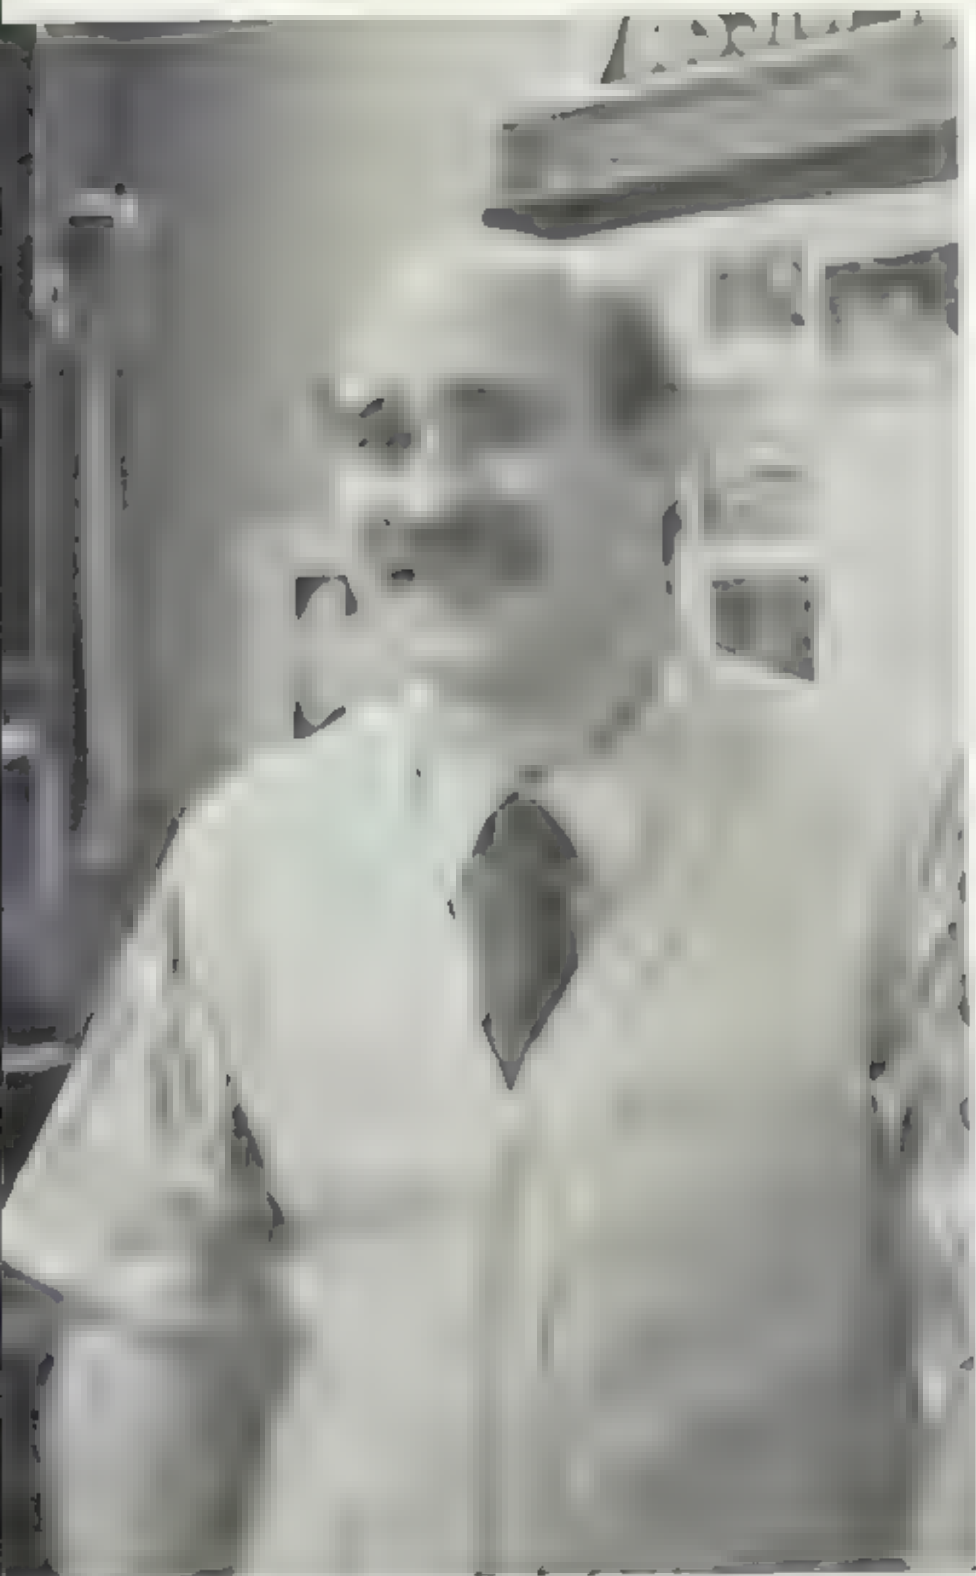

As the Titan's strived for excellence in the Sunbelt League they won a championship in varsity football, in varsity basketball, and came in second in varsity soccer. Cross country also had its outstanding performers. They were Rebecca Hodde, Julie Schouten, Joseph Schupp, and Michael Orvates who were invited to Taiwan for the National China Road Running Championship. Rebecca Hodde came in second in her division. All of our athletes played their hardest. Congratulations!

Breaking Heads

They are the anonymous celebrities. All the students know who they are, but no one knows anything about them. They are the teachers.

To break down the wall of secrecy, the faculty section features some of the teachers who have been through what we've been through. These lucky few attended Notre Dame as high school students. And now they are back, helping us through.

Father Walter Wilczek

Coming to us from Chicago, Illinois, his home state, with a great deal of enthusiasm, Father Wally brought change and new goals to Notre Dame. As our principal, Father Wally set goals which he felt would improve the "educational experience" here at Notre Dame and with much spirit and optimism, set out to achieve them.

After answering a search by Sister Ann Muckerman, the Superintendent of Schools for the Diocese of San Bernardino, Father Wally came to Notre Dame as our principal. Originally, Father Wally had planned to take some time to study for spiritual renewal. However, when Sister Ann Muckerman asked him to seriously consider taking the job, Father Wally felt a responsibility in the calling, and was pleased to be called to serve the Church at Notre Dame High School.

Upon arriving at Notre Dame, Father Wally was a bit disappointed with the appearance of the school. Father Wally felt that "the way a school looks is an indication of the amount of respect the students have for each other." However, after meeting the faculty which gave him tremendous support and talking to students "who projected confidence in themselves and their goals," Father Wally felt the school had great potential. He then went on to say, "the students deserve a school which projects a positive attitude," and that an "atmosphere where everyone on campus is important and deserves to be treated with dignity as the Lord's children, should be created." With this in mind Father Wally began to apply the wisdom of previous accomplishments to his new calling.

Having been involved in education throughout his career, Father Wally served in many important positions. He served as a teacher, drama moderator, Athletic Director and President of the Chicago Catholic Athletic League while working at his Alma Mater high school Weber, and at Gordon Tech. Also in Chicago, he served as a teacher, Chairman of the Guidance Department, Assistant Principal and Principal. Another key job Father Wally held for seven years before coming to Notre Dame, was the position of Superintendent of Catholic High Schools for the Archdiocese. These jobs and many other education related jobs helped make Father Wally a very competent and appropriate Principal of Notre Dame.

After working with many high school students, Father Wally has come to understand much about the adolescent years. He feels "adolescent years are years of uncertainty, peer pressure, and a value system which is in a turmoil," and that here at Notre Dame an "anchor of sanity and structure" should be provided. Father Wally added, "nothing can happen without Christ, and that by giving ourselves to the Lord, we can bring about fulfillment and success."

Taking all aspects into consideration, Father Wally, as Principal of Notre Dame, had one basic message for the faculty, staff and students. "In the same spirit of openness and generosity with which we would turn to other things, we need to turn to the Lord."

Way back when Mr. Wuetcher was a student at Notre Dame, he describes himself as being a "shy, studious, mild mannered jock."

He had not always planned on coming back to teach here at N D, but he was in the right place at the time

Mr. Wuetcher teaches American Literature and coaches his favorite sport, basketball

When asked which he preferred teaching or being a student, he replied, "They both have their own equal value. It was fun and rewarding being a student, but it has been extremely rewarding being on the other side, teaching and coaching."

A few things have changed since Mr. Wuetcher was a student. One of the changes has been the teachers. They have come and gone, but the big differences are that he is now teaching brothers and sisters of people he once went to school with, and that some of his class mates are teaching along with him.

Mr. Wuetcher enjoys teaching American Lit coaching basketball and also enjoys working with the rest of the faculty educating such a good student body

"The people are great. The students can be thankful for a hard working faculty, and the teachers are fortunate to be instructing such quality students." Mr. Wuetcher had good people helping him along the way as a student and he hopes that he can provide the same kind of help for the students today

A new addition to this year's English Department is Miss Dolan, another one of Notre Dame's alumni turned teacher.

Miss Dolan came as a student in her sophomore year and graduated Cum-Laude in 1976. She feels Notre Dame hasn't really changed that much since her student days, but notes the level of spirit was higher then and that students attitudes were a great deal different.

During her years as a student, Miss Dolan remembers studying under Mr. Bellah, Mrs. Tenney and Mr. Heding. They are now all co-workers along with former fellow students, Mr. Wuetcher, Miss Schulte, Miss de la Cruz and her best and closest friend, Mrs. Favela. Speaking with Mrs. Favela and asking about Miss Dolan led to one word repeated many times describing her as a fellow student, "noisy, noisy, noisy!" That isn't all though, her nickname according to Mrs. Favela is "Miss Cheerful" and "everybody's friend." Outside of being "everybody's friend," Miss Dolan kept busy with maintaining an above average grade point average and being on the student council. She was very involved in drama, one of her favorite classes. She was president of the drama club and in 1975 appeared in the school musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Miss De La Cruz finds her teaching gratifying and her students enjoyable even though there's a different kind of student here than there was when she attended N.D. from 1973-1977. "Much has changed since those days" she says, "there was more discipline and the dress code was enforced more even though we had uniforms." She also thinks the students speak out more and aren't so content to accept what they're told. "The students challenge what they're told now," she said. The things she likes best about N.D. are the friendships that grew out of her four years here and the good education she received. Believe it or not some of the teachers that taught Miss De La Cruz are still here! They are Mrs. Benchoff who taught her Spanish and Mr. Heding who taught her

History of the Media and History of the West.

After graduation she kept busy by attending U.C.R., where she received her BA in Liberal Studies. She financed her studies by working at J.C. Penney in the Men's Department, for four years. When asked what hobbies she had Miss De La Cruz exclaimed, "I LOVE RACQUETBALL!" Traveling and photography are also favorites.

As for returning to N.D. she never planned on it. Getting a job as an elementary teacher was what she had in mind till Mrs. Benchoff and Mr. Heding convinced her otherwise. "I met up with Mr. Heding and Mrs. Benchoff and they suggested that I apply at Notre Dame," she explained. Landing the job came as a complete "shock" for our alumni Spanish teacher.

Mrs. Favela, a former student here at Notre Dame, looks back on how it was when she went here. She didn't plan on returning, but, once she did, and had her first experience teaching, she decided it was fun. When asked about any changes that have taken place she proclaimed, "There hasn't been really any major changes except for the uniforms we wore." She was asked what was the best thing about being a student here at Notre Dame. Mrs. Favela said "It was fun and enjoyable. I had it to compare with my old school." She said that the best thing about being a teacher was "Talking to the students and getting to know them better." I asked her if student attitudes have changed. "No, they haven't, but their styles and fashions sure have."

Since graduation Mrs. Favela has been quite busy, going to school and receiving a social science degree, getting married, bowling and having a baby boy.

Mrs. Favela do you like teaching? "Oh yea, a lot!" she exclaimed

When asked if she enjoys teaching here at N.D., Miss Schulte declared, without having to think twice, "Yes, I really do!" Could it be that she answered too quickly? Is she trying to convince us, and herself? Did she even want to be a teacher in the first place? Miss Schulte said herself that she originally was an aspiring pattern drafter. She says she was extremely shy and quiet, "never saying three words," throughout high school. Mr. Bellah, who nurtured her young artistic abilities, had this to add to this description of a high school aged Miss Schulte: "While attending, she was only two feet, three inches tall so we hardly saw her for the first three years. She did excellent work on a small scale after we cut the pencils in half so they wouldn't be too heavy and sat her on two chairs." If Mr. Bellah is correct, how could she handle her cooking, sewing, camping, and fishing (her hobbies)?

Since she never planned on returning to N.D. Miss Schulte was asked what prompted her homecoming after five years of college and one year of teaching nursery school? She replied that she liked the atmosphere of going to school here. She realized, though, that students' attitudes have changed greatly since her student years here. "Students are more vocal now," she said, "and that's better than not saying anything."

Miss Schulte declared that teaching Home Ec. here is "fun" because she likes working with "kids." Although she likes being a teacher more, she still knows what being a student is like because she is still taking classes at Cal Poly.

The best thing about going to school at N.D. was summed up by Miss Schulte herself — "the spirit and the friends."

Breaking Away

As the years go by, one class after another graduates from Notre Dame and each leaves with their own identity. They leave with the thoughts of what made their particular class unique. The class of 1983 is not special in size or number, but it is special in that they are the last class to have experienced formal initiation on Notre Dame's campus. The week of initiation back in '79 was dubbed "nerd week", a memorable week that some choose to forget. Since that time Kangaroo Court and all of its formalities have faded out of sight. School and Diocesan rules no longer permit on campus initiation such as Kangaroo Court, but every freshman to pass through high school never forgets that first year whether initiated or not. We can look back and remember the trials for being accepted and laugh, but then quickly come back to reality and remember that for every peak we reach there is a mountain to climb for it, and that it won't be long until we must begin again at the bottom for our longest journey to come — the one leading us beyond N.D. and into the future. Each day is filled with problems and joys for all of us to endure, but maybe with the good times to remember from our years in high school, we can learn to take every day for what it is. We'll say goodbye to you, class of '83, and farewell to a tradition that leaves with you

Most Athletic
Both Karen Wallace and David Ramirez come from pretty athletic families which has played an important role in helping them become classified as the most athletic seniors. Karen who participates in softball and basketball enjoys softball the most. She has won various awards in that sport. David who plays football and basketball and wrestles is especially good in football. He has won a number of awards in being Prep Athlete of the Week.

David Ramirez and Karen Wallace

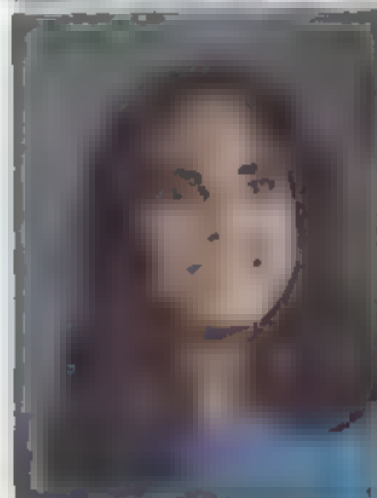

Tim Ramirez and Susie Lavery

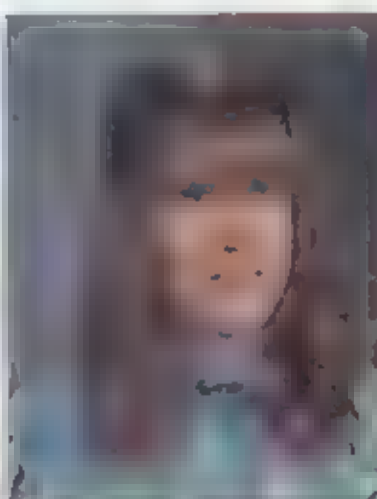

Best Dressed
ND seniors Susie Lavery and Tim Ramirez are known as B3's two best dressed students. Susie, who has been here since her sophomore year says she likes what's cute and in style. She doesn't look for labels but rather quality in the items she buys. Tim, who has also been here three years likes the prep look. He does most of his shopping at Myers Outpost where he can find his favorite brand Calvin Klein.

Class Crown
How does it feel to be class crown? Brad said he was hurt. He was running on being chosen as most studious or most likely to succeed. After graduation while Susie is hanging out of her cap and gown, Brad will attend Harvard College to study Pre-Law then continue his education as an electrician (his hobby), all after his profitable career. Susie said being chosen changed her life. Johnny Echeverria talks to her now. Brad said it is his life.

Chris Rombach and Suzie Bronowski

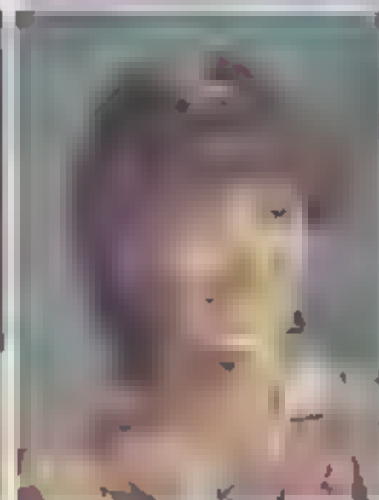

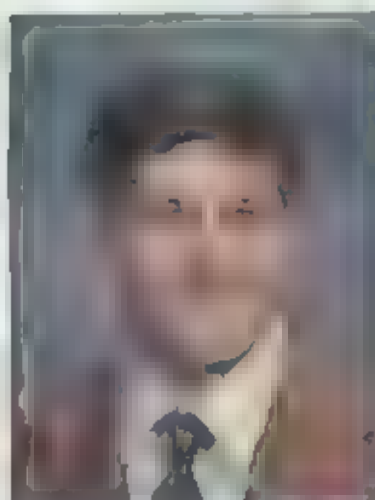

Most Spirited
 The winners of most spirited were Chris Rombach and Suzie Bronowski. When interviewed we asked Suzie and Chris if they felt that to be spirited we need a winning team. No, said Suzie. Just trying your hardest to win is spirit no matter if you lose. Chris who was busy running off to spirited activities had just enough time to express a profound heartfelt. No, Suzie chuckled when asked about the most spirited thing done at the assemblies. When we have games against each class everyone goes wild. Chris stated that for him it would have to be R-man or Mr. Party Animal.

Breaking Through

Being an underclassmen is a time to put down roots, become acquainted with the school and get ready for that all important step of becoming a senior, pulling out roots and becoming acquainted with a college of one's choice.

Being an underclassmen is an embarrassing time of life — so many social blunders that can't be helped. Like asking the girl of your dreams for a date and then having to have mom drive you there and pick you up

It's also a time of growing, attaining new privileges — like a drivers license. Hop around any circle of sophomores and chances are they'll be talking about a car they hit or almost didn't hit.

Some things never change: the fun of going to dances when it was still cool too, the rush of a real live car date for the first time, watching class after class graduate and being able to tease the new underclassmen — someone else is finally at the bottom of the heap!!!

The Juniors hit the nail on the head when they chose "Big Green Machine" for their Homecoming float.

The float was built at the Troquato's house. For the first few meetings they worked on flowers and stared at the bare flat-bed. After that, things started to take shape. Slowly, the frame went up. Everyone helped in their own way, whether it was hammering or passing around cookies.

The Juniors really got into painting. They not only painted the float, but they painted each other.

Each day you heard more people saying, "Wow! This float looks awesome!"

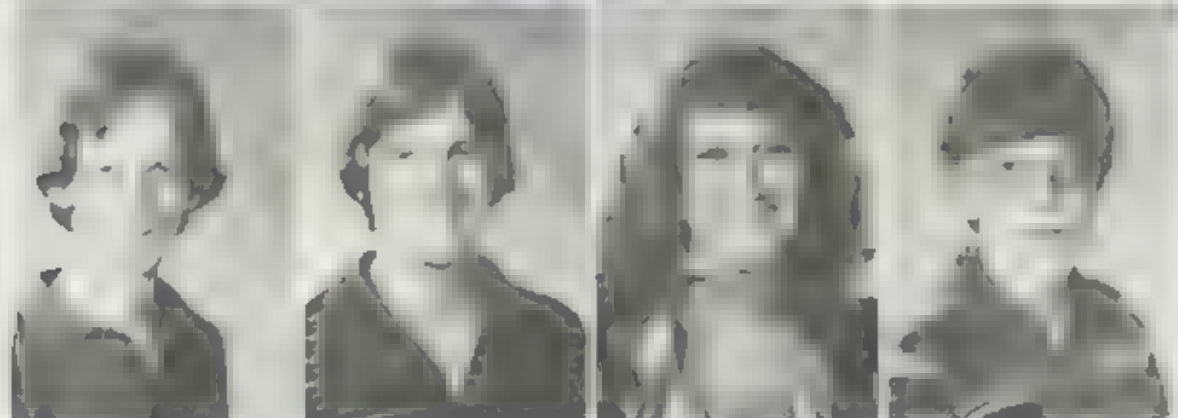

Time was growing short and the meetings were getting longer. The night before Homecoming, the Juniors had an all night float meeting. Everyone was busy finishing up. It was three A.M. when they finally turned in.

The next morning, everyone was up early, ready to go to the parade.

They tied for second place, but were satisfied knowing they worked so hard and went for broke.

Hey Juniors, listen up! Where do you like to go to lunch? Well, if you cannot find a great place to go off campus and eat this year be ready for some advice

The Seniors have been to, and tried, many eateries. After two years of off campus lunching, some Seniors have their favorites. Tharion Bracy likes to go to "Mad Greek." David Bradvica enjoys the Jolly Kone. Out of a very brief poll, Del Taco came out on top as the favorite place for the Class of 83

Sophomores

Video games are very popular and the kids at Notre Dame share in the fun. About 68% of our seniors and 63% of the juniors shoot to make Centipede their favorite. Around 53% of the sophomores and a surprising 85% of the freshmen jump to make Donkey Kong their overall favorite. Most of the school enjoys hopping to safety in Frogger, eating the ghosts in Pacman, and destroying anything in your way in Tempest. Great places to go to test your skills at these games are the Flipper Flapper in Riverside Plaza and

Castle Park in La Sierra. The students at Notre Dame spend between one and five dollars a week on video games. Many people play every day but there are quite a few who don't like to play that often — maybe once a week. Nowadays teenagers really need to escape every now and then to release the pressure they have built up. When we look back at our days at Notre Dame we are going to remember football games, pizza, crazy friends, rowdy assemblies, and video games

The Sophomores blew away all the other classes at the Homecoming assembly

They won the spirit stick by an outstanding show of high quality spirit. With Omar Gardner the Soph's leader they clapped, yelled and cheered the other classes to shame

Weeks before the assembly they planned to show their spirit and pride in N D. by doing whatever they thought was radical enough to win the spirit stick. This is truly, "THE YEAR OF THE SOPHS!"

The species "freshmanus" has a unique evolutionary process during its first year of secondary schooling. The beginning stages are typified by unbelievable eagerness on the part of the freshman student. A common manifestation of this is carrying books around during break and lunch. If an upperclassman should ask them why, they mumble an answer with trembling chin and tear filled eyes. This stage is usually over with by the time they can participate in the fire drills without getting hysterical and flinging their frail bodies on to the grass on the athletic field.

The second stage is a stage of change and maturing. For instance the freshmen now participate in pep rallies as opposed to sitting wide-eyed with their hands folded. By the end of the year the freshman has learned the survival technique of adaptation and they are on their way to learning the fine art of being a senior. Good luck!

Breaking Rules

From Spirit week to assemblies everyone participated in Notre Dame's activities. Where there was action there were many students having fun and building school spirit. The crowds at activities proved that we are spirited

Spirit week started off fantastically. Many people participated in "Greek Mythology Day" held by the Seniors. The attire of the day was togas. At lunch time the Olympics were held. The events included a tricycle race, excuse contest and a football throwing contest. The tricycle race was set on a course that went through many people and things. If you were Ms. Zix would you accept an excuse from someone that their sundial broke down? That was just one of the many excuses that were used in the excuse contest. Even Hercules would have had problems winning the football toss. The object was to hit a lid, that was a few hundred feet away. The Seniors viewed the day as an absolute success.

Mike Garcia was really "mixed-up"

On Tuesday, spirit was not slowed down. The Sophomores had "Army Fatigue Day." So many people dressed up that I thought I was at an ex-military camp or in training. The competition at lunch was proof of my thoughts. An obstacle course was set up on the field. It was a rough course but many people, including faculty members participated and reportedly had a great time.

Wednesday was the day everyone was mixed-up, because Freshmen had "mix-up" Day." Boys were dressed as housewives and girls were dressed as businessmen but many people seemed to forget how to match on that day. Purple socks were worn with brown outfits, clothes were worn backwards and everyone was just plain mixed up. At lunch there were many different tugs of wars. Classes struggled to beat other classes and girls tried to beat guys. Though there were many mismatched students the day was loaded with spirit.

On the last day of spirit week activities the Juniors held "What I wanna be when I grow up" day. It was a day where if you were sick there were plenty of doctors, nurses and mommies to take care of you. There was a wide variety of career choices expressed by students in their apparel. I am sure Fr. Bob was happy! At lunch a costume contest was held, by the Juniors. The winners were chosen by other students and the winning costumes were well deserving. Everyone had fun!

Spirit week turned out to be a smashing success. As a result spirits were high when Homecoming and victory came to N.D. over the Rim of the World Scots!!

Halloween

Halloween is a time of craziness and Notre Dame has plenty of it on our campus. The people act especially wild and it's pretty hard to stay under control. Our costume contest was the best part of the day. The costumes consisted of some funny characters like Sylvester the cat, Zorro, pregnant nuns, and even Aunt Jemima. Of course there were many other excellent outfits, but these certain ones stood out among the crowds of costumes. This year's Halloween was definitely one to remember

Basketball Homecoming was on the fourteenth of January in the Notre Dame gym. Notre Dame defeated Rim of the World by a decisive score of 70 to 46. The members of the Homecoming court were: Tharion Bracy who was escorted by Dawn Richardson, Mike Garcia escorted by Ginny Madden, Dennis Brown escorted by Natalie Hernandez, Jeff Wright escorted by Rhonda Silveira, Ray Marisnick escorted by Vicki Brown, David Ramirez escorted by Sherry Haynes, and Tim Pacific who was crowned king, escorted by Aimee Dalzell. Those who attended the dance "tripped the light fantastic" to the sounds of the electric DJ simply known to N D. students as "OZ!" The tunes most played on the agenda were by New Wave artists such as the B-52's, the Go-Go's, Stray Cats, and Missing Persons. The turnout, although not phenomenal, was impressive, and good time was had by all

A new priest and a brand new liturgy committee brought innovation as well as tradition to Notre Dame's prayer services and masses. At our 2nd mass our chief celebrant was Father Bob Clover, a recently ordained Notre Dame alumnus. Mr. Ross and Mr. Cardenas assisted Janine Watson, Monique Hickey and other students brought musical responses to our Eucharistic celebrations. The Christmas mass planned by the Freshman class even had incense. Our liturgies gave us unity and a feeling of closeness to our Creator.

The Notre Dame Musical, "Fiddler on the Roof"

"Fiddler on the Roof," this year's musical production, was the twelfth show since Notre Dame began presenting shows in 1972. Sister Bridget Marie, the principal of Saint Francis de Sales at the time contacted Shirley Vander Linde to direct the first show. She chose to do "Little Mary Sunshine" because she thought it would be fairly easy. She didn't foresee the trouble she would have persuading the Notre Dame boys to audition. They heard the title and knew immediately they didn't want to be in any "sissy musical." But Sister Bridget stopped boys in the halls, told them they were going to be in the play, and produced "one of the best male choruses we've ever had," according to Mrs. Vander Linde. And so began Notre Dame's tradition of excellent musicals. When Notre Dame and Saint Francis merged and became co-educational, Mrs. V. appropriately chose to do "Guys and Dolls." Other productions included "Damn Yankees," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "Mame," "Hello Dolly," "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," "Li'l Abner," "Finian's Rainbow," "Oliver," and last year's "The Music Man."

Professional sets from San Bernardino's Civic Light Opera have been used since "Hello Dolly" in 1977. Before that the sets were made of cardboard. Most of the other materials are rented from New York.

A few alumni faculty members, including Mrs. Luksich and Miss Dolan have been in Notre Dame's productions. Romances have blossomed from the musicals. Alumni Cindy McKay and Tim Richardson, who played romantic leads, met on the set of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." They dated during the show and got married two or three years ago.

The response to the musicals wasn't very good until about five years ago. Since then it has become much more accepted. Abbey Dickey, who has conducted the orchestra for the past five years says that musicians call her to ask to be in Notre Dame's musical orchestra. The audience is building every year. This year, "Fiddler," was performed to an almost full house both nights. Miss Tirabassi received a letter from some people she doesn't even know praising Notre Dame's wonderful productions and telling her they never miss one of Notre Dame's shows.

Mrs. V. chooses which show to do by having preliminary auditions and deciding what kind of talent there is. Her number one factor in casting a show is voice or singing ability, then acting ability, and then the look for the part. Mrs. V. said there was a lot of talent this year. She chose "Fiddler on the Roof" because it had a lot of leads and a lot of crowd scenes so everyone could be involved.

Miss Tirabassi raised money to produce the show by selling ads in the program, patrons spaces, selling candles as a fund raiser, and selling tickets.

Mrs. V. gave one of the best reasons why Notre Dame puts on these shows year after year. She said it gives a person a feeling of their own self worth when they can get up in front of a large audience and sing and dance and act. Father Wilczek showed his appreciation for all the hard work of putting the musical together by giving the cast and crew a day off of school for the first year ever. Mrs. V. said, "When students from Notre Dame go away to college is when they realize how good the shows were."

The students seem to enjoy themselves and hopefully they will be as successful in years to come as they have been this year and the preceding years

Membership in CSF is based on scholarship and citizenship. Poor citizenship can bar a student from joining CSF. A student must get at least three A's and one B on his report card to become a member. Membership is not automatic. A student must bring his report card, fill out an application and pay one dollar to be given credit for being a member of CSF for one semester. A student may join each semester he is eligible but failure to join at the designated time keeps that student from being a member of CSF for that semester. Some of the privileges of being a member of CSF are: UCR library and activities card, eligible to attend field trips, honor roll of members, posted and given semesterly recognition, life membership, and eligibility for scholarships.

Mrs. Benchoff the group's moderator

Mrs. Benchoff founded our chapter of the Spanish Honor Society, named after Juan Ruiz de Alcaicón (a Mexican poet of the 17th century), in 1974. As an honor society, students had to have earned an A for three consecutive semesters in Spanish class and maintained a 3.0 G.P.A. in order to belong to SHS. Graduating seniors get the privilege of wearing gold and red cords with their cap and gown. Money is raised so scholarships can be given to students who are continuing their Spanish education in college. Members also held candy and bake sales, among other fund raisers, to help pay for a trip to Spain over the summer.

Yearbook, one of the most under-rated classes on campus (isn't that a kick-back class?) is headed by, Mr. John "Menachem" Spurlock with various threats sputtered at the seventeen misfits in the class, the most classic tradition was their good luck prayer before a deadline "Shalom, Shalom, Shalom 3-0-6-3-5 (their job number that identifies them to the publisher), No sweat (out and out lying). "This is to insure that nothing ever goes wrong — but sometimes" Well, Heck . . . we're just human," states editor Veronica Sirias.

Anyone who shrugs Yearbook off as an easy class has obviously not lived, breathed, slept and ate year-book as the staff of 1982-83 has

As our book comes to its end, we hope you can honestly say you enjoyed this year that you can appreciate it now for what it was worth. That when you dust off this year book in a few years, you can remember reaching out and making the most of every moment — and be able to look back, with the intent of letting it help you go forward understand that it is what we make of the time we have now that will determine how we will remember it — whether we recall our memories with happiness, or a longing to return to them

Good luck to the class of '83 and to all those following — remember you're "only just as good as you really think you are"

Breaking the Mold . . .

a Word From Our Editor

When I was volunteered for the job of editor, no one had greater doubts about my ability to handle such an enormous task than myself (excluding some of my classmates, most of the faculty, and all of the administration). Of course, this prompted me to reply, "Youbet-cha." I was determined to whip my staff within an inch of their lives, if just to prove everybody wrong . . . I could direct the makings of a good-if not great — yearbook

I had a lot of high hopes for this year, causing my humility in this area to fade quite a bit. But I knew it wasn't just me talking. The 1982-83 Yearbook staff knows what a bad yearbook looks like and they continually strove for the best they could (without me whipping them within inches of their lives).

After spending a week of summer vacation at yearbook "Auschwitz" camp, I was faced with coming back to about 16 rookies and give them a crash course: "10 Quick, Easy Steps to Making a Yearbook for Fun and Profit." It wasn't easy, and I could have killed them at times, but they did it — they deserve all the credit — I'm very proud of them. There was a lot of dedication put into this book — especially all the summer hours everybody gave up to sell ads — they were a staff that I'm sure many editors would have given their right arms for.

Thanks for giving me half a chance, Mr. Spurlock — you didn't do too bad for a rookie, either.

A yearbook is a history book. All I hope is that we've put out a book that's good enough to keep. And when you take it off the shelf in 10 years, that it will be just as easy to remember everything as if it were yesterday.

"Well, I hope I'm not the only one Who's running wild and having fun
Because I know right now I'm never going to change."

— from "Go For Broke"

P S. The 1982-83 Titan Yearbook Staff would like to acknowledge the support given to us by Mr. Spurlock and our principal, Father Wally. This book and this year would not have been the same without you.

Breaking Even

Yearbook didn't start in September. It started 3 months before, in June, when the yearbook staff started the search for advertisers. It takes a lot of money to build a yearbook and advertising money makes possible a variety of improvements and corrections.

We want to thank all these businesses, parishes and patrons who supported our work.

Pam,
I am really glad I got to know you this year
you are a fun person
to talk to and to be with.
Have fun this summer with your cast on your arm! (Ha Ha Ha!)
Have an awesome summer!

Theresa

Pam, like am I one of the alive few that get to sign your year book? Gee, I'm so privileged. Just think, next year no ND. HOT DAMN!

~~Go to~~ (whoops!)

good luck with Lec.

Pam, this year's over too bad that I can't wait on but kidding! I can't wait on more year and were out.
 Have fun this summer
 and I hope your arm gets better
 soon. Love Charlene
